WHEELING'S PAST

Incorporated in 1894, the Village of Wheeling originated as an overnight rest stop for travelers journeying from Chicago to the Wisconsin Territory via the overland trail known today as Milwaukee Avenue. The inns, taverns, and eateries established in the 1830's on this major corridor developed into Wheeling's Restaurant Row. In step with the growth of Metro Chicago, Wheeling emerged as a center for industry and commerce in the 1960's. Today, Wheeling residents and business owners enjoy the vibrant neighborhoods, public amenities, and community spirit fostered by this rich heritage.

WHEELING NOW

Located in the heart of the prestigious north suburbs of Chicago, and with a diverse population of 40,000 people, Wheeling has shared in the area's economic growth and prosperity over the past four decades. Cultured, industrious and creative, Wheeling is home to the renowned Restaurant Row, award-winning schools and a flourishing business community.

Wheeling's municipal government is structured in the Council-Manager form: a professional Village Manager directs day-to-day operations, while policymaking is the task of an elected Village President and Board of Trustees. Residents are encouraged to take an active role in community affairs.

The Village of Wheeling has a dedicated professional staff which has kept Wheeling at the forefront of municipal enhancement and modernization.

THE HEART OF CHICAGO'S NORTH SUBURBS

Transportation and accessibility remain among the Village's best assets. Interstate 294 runs along the eastern boundary of the Village with interchanges at Lake Cook and Palatine Roads. I-294 allows quick access to O'Hare International Airport, Chicago's Loop, and the regional interstate system. Illinois 53, just west of Wheeling via Lake Cook and Dundee Roads, also leads to the interstate system. Routes U.S. 45 and Illinois 83 offer easy north-south access to other Chicago communities.

Wheeling is also home to and co-owner of Chicago Executive Airport, the third-busiest airport in Chicagoland after O'Hare and Midway, which serves the general and business aviation sector. More than 200 aircraft are based on the field, with over 75,000 takeoffs and landings annually.

Commuter rail is also available to those who live in, work in, and visit Wheeling via the Metra North Central Line at the Wheeling Metra Station. The North Central Line has regular service to and from Chicago's Union Station, O'Hare Airport, and suburban communities farther north. Public transportation within the Village and to nearby communities is provided by Pace buses.

INTERNATIONAL GATEWAY

Like most airports across our nation, Chicago Executive Airport was once a modest grass strip created by early aviation enthusiasts when airplanes were a novelty and travel by air was an uncommon luxury. The airport was purchased in 1953 by George Priester, who expanded and developed the facility until 1986, when it was purchased by the neighboring communities of Wheeling and Prospect Heights.

A US Customs Office is located onsite at Chicago Executive Airport.

The airport is a key building block and powerful economic engine for both communities, and for the surrounding area. Chicago Executive Airport produces direct and indirect economic benefits such as sales tax revenue and increased business activity for local industry and retail operations across a wide range of enterprises, including hotels and restaurants.

Chicago Executive Airport serves the general and business aviation sector and is the third-busiest airport in Chicagoland, after O'Hare and Midway. More than 200 aircraft are based on the field, with over 75,000 takeoffs and landings annually.

The airport operates 24 hours a day year-round. The air traffic control tower is staffed by the Federal Aviation Administration and operates daily. The primary users of Chicago Executive Airport include private airplane owners, flight schools, businesses who maintain corporate aircraft at the airport, and major national and international corporations.

Located just north of Chicago, Chicago Executive Airport provides travelers with the convenience of being within easy reach of one of the most dynamic and vibrant cities in America. With easy access to Interstate 94, Chicago's famous Magnificent Mile and bustling financial district are only minutes away and many Fortune 500 companies are closer yet.

In 2013, the Illinois Department of Transportation named Chicago Executive Airport the Reliever Airport of the Year.

LIVING IN WHEELING

Wheeling's residents enjoy a high standard of living in the wide selection of housing the community offers. Young parents find suitable and affordable single-family homes in Wheeling's established, tree-lined neighborhoods. Active homeowners and empty-nesters appreciate the well-maintained condominium and townhome developments in the Village. In addition, a wealth of rental apartment complexes accommodates families of all sizes. Overall, a great selection of existing and newly constructed homes, townhomes, condominiums, and apartments are available in a variety of size and price ranges.

The community is served by a number of shopping centers. These centers provide a variety of convenient retail and consumer services to Wheeling residents, and to families in particular. Local businesses servicing family needs include a number of children's daycare centers, adult daycare centers, preschools, and hobby shops. Wheeling offers large national chain stores including Target, Sam's Club, and Walmart. The Wheeling area also provides a broad array of places of worship.

Wheeling is the center of commerce and industry in the northern suburbs. The Village has approximately 14 million square feet of industrial space, and continually leads nearby communities with its low vacancy rate in that category. Wheeling is also home to over 850 licensed businesses. Every year for the past decade, Wheeling's unemployment rate has been lower than the Chicago Primary Metropolitan Statistical Area and State of Illinois rates per Illinois Department of Employment Security statistics. Employment growth continues to be the rule in the Wheeling marketplace.

STRATEGIC PLANNING

Today, as the area destination for dining and entertainment and as a major job center, the Village of Wheeling is focusing on the community's future by leveraging its continued growth to develop a transit-oriented Town Center as reflected in the Village's master plan. The 50 acres of land surrounding the Wheeling Metra Station are progressing through the various stages of planning to realize this vision.

The Village is guiding the process of creating additional development opportunities in this unique neighborhood—which includes the recent redevelopment of the 85-acre Heritage Park—to create a bustling destination for future residents, shoppers, and business owners to populate a contemporary transit-oriented center.

For information on participating in this long-range development effort, please contact the Department of Economic Development.

GROWING TOGETHER

The Department of Economic Development lends a hand to existing businesses to manage future growth and space needs, answer questions about Village business services, and assist in promoting our business community. Recruitment of new businesses and industries is managed by this office as well.

The Village continues to attract new business growth and retain existing businesses in Wheeling consistent with the Village Comprehensive Plan. While Wheeling is an established suburb of Chicago, a considerable amount of property remains available for infill commercial and industrial development and redevelopment. The Village continues to promote such opportunities for the right types of business as part of its goal to encourage growth and stabilize its economic base.

Contact Economic Development staff for information regarding

- Locating a business
- Land development opportunities throughout Wheeling
- Industrial relocation incentives, including Class 6B
- TIF incentives within the Village's five TIF Districts
- Façade Improvement Grants for TIF district commercial property owners
- Up-to-date inventory of available land and buildings for sale or lease
- Assistance with identifying state and regional business development programs
